For ICICI Bank Canada and its subsidiaries (ICICI Bank, 'we', 'our' or 'us'), an important part of our commitment to providing our customers ('Customer', 'you' or 'your') with excellent service is our respect for your right to privacy. While information is the cornerstone of our ability to provide excellent service, our most important asset is our Customers' trust. Your personal information (information that refers to you specifically as an individual) being kept secure, and being used only as you would want us to, is a top priority for us. We are committed to meeting or exceeding the privacy standards established by federal and provincial regulations and industry bodies. All of our information handling practices comply with federal and applicable provincial laws, including the Personal Information Protection and Electronic Documents Act, an initiative designed to further protect the privacy of Canadian consumers.

ICICI Bank is committed to maintaining the accuracy, confidentiality and security of your personal and financial information. As part of this commitment, we have established 'Ten Privacy Principles' to govern our actions as they relate to the use of Customer information.

In such cases, ICICI Bank will release only the information that is legally required. In addition, we may disclose personal information to public authorities without an individual's consent to protect the public interest. In addition, we may disclose your personal and other information without requesting your consent for the following purposes:
